National Guild of Hypnotists.

Press Release for 2008 NGH Convention

(Merrimack, NH) June 30, 2008

The National Guild of Hypnotists reports that many people are turning to hypnotism as a new career choice. The 57-year-old organization, the world's oldest and largest association for professional consulting hypnotists, already has more than 10,000 members, representing 65 countries around the globe. Yet, the number of people registering to attend this year's 3-day convention and conference, scheduled for August 8, 9, and 10, is out of the ordinary by comparison to any previous year.

Tom Nicoli, Board Certified Hypnotist and longtime NGH member is perhaps best known for his successful hypnosis weight loss program, which was the subject of NBC's Dateline. Nicoli explains, "The economy is tight, people are looking for meaningful new careers or ways to supplement their current vocation, so it makes sense that they are choosing to become board certified hypnotists through the National Guild. What an opportunity to change your life and your finances while helping others."

The NGH Convention is open both to hypnotism professionals and to anyone with a sincere interest in learning more about hypnosis or careers in hypnotism and fields that utilize it. You can receive information about the National Guild of Hypnotists Convention and Educational Conference, by calling the NGH Convention registrar at (603) 429-9438. Additional information about hypnotism, the NGH Summer Institute, or the 2008 NGH Convention can be found on the NGH Convention blog:

According to the Guild's International Affairs Officer, Dr. Shaun Brookhouse of London, England, "Refining your craft as a professional consulting hypnotist is a study of a lifetime. But the National Guild of Hypnotists Convention is an excellent place to start. Come for 3 days or up to two weeks. Depending upon the classes you take, you can leave the NGH Convention ready to set up your own professional practice."

In addition to offering its members in-depth training, certifications, re-certifications, and important professional benefits, the National Guild of Hypnotists provides its members a powerful lobbying arm. Through their affiliation with the OPEIU/AFL-CIO, the Hypnotists Guild is the champion for the rights of professional hypnotists and the integrity of the practice of hypnotism.

Today's NGH membership includes therapists, counselors, coaches, nurses, and a range of health care professionals. A college degree is not required for enrolling in the NGH Convention courses, or for receiving your certification as a Board Certified Professional Consulting Hypnotist.

The National Guild of Hypnotists, Inc. is a not-for-profit, educational corporation. Founded in Boston, MA in 1951, the Guild is a professional organization comprised of dedicated individuals committed to advancing the field of hypnotism. National Guild of Hypnotists president, Dr. Dwight F. Damon is available for media interviews at (603) 429-9438.
